

Radbound Dissertation Series

Radbound University Press was founded in 2021 at Radbound University, Nijmegen, the Netherlands. We are a Diamond Open Access publisher of peer-reviewed academic journals and books across a wide range of academic disciplines. Our mission is to make scientific knowledge more freely accessible worldwide.

PhD candidates pursuing their doctorates at Radbound University* have the opportunity to publish their dissertations with Radbound University Press as part of the Radbound Dissertation Series. The individual dissertations will gain visibility within their specific field of study through indexing.

Radbound University Press will provide process guidance and control and handle administrative tasks throughout the publication process. Your dissertation will be professionally designed and produced. Dissertations will be formatted according to the house style of the Radbound Dissertation Series.

Before publication, you can order copies of your dissertation and booklets containing a summary and a QR code which links to the digital version of the dissertation for friends, family, and acquaintances. The faculty will reimburse you for the design and printing costs up until a certain maximum, but you can always order additional copies or booklets at your own expense. Once published with us, your dissertation will remain available as a free download in PDF format via our website. Paper copies can also be ordered any time on a print-on-demand basis. This ensures that those who prefer a physical copy of the dissertation can obtain one at a reasonable cost that covers the production expenses and delivery costs.

Radbound University Press offers:

- DOI
- ISBN
- Professional design and print
- Indexing
- Hosting
- Availability by print-on-demand
- Sending the digital version to the Radbound Repository

The requirements to publish in this series are as follows:

- The doctoral candidate must be affiliated with Radbound University.
- The final manuscript must be approved by the manuscript committee.

If the above conditions are met, each dissertation will be accepted for publication.

Ensuring scientific quality in this series is the responsibility of the PhD candidate and the manuscript committee of each dissertation.

* With the exception of candidates from Max Planck Institute and Behavioural Science Institute.

For more information about the reimbursement see Appendix II of the Doctorate regulations.

Interested?

Great! If you decide to publish at Radboud University Press with the Radboud Dissertations Series, please email us at dissertations.radbouduniversitypress@ru.nl. Please include the following details in your email:

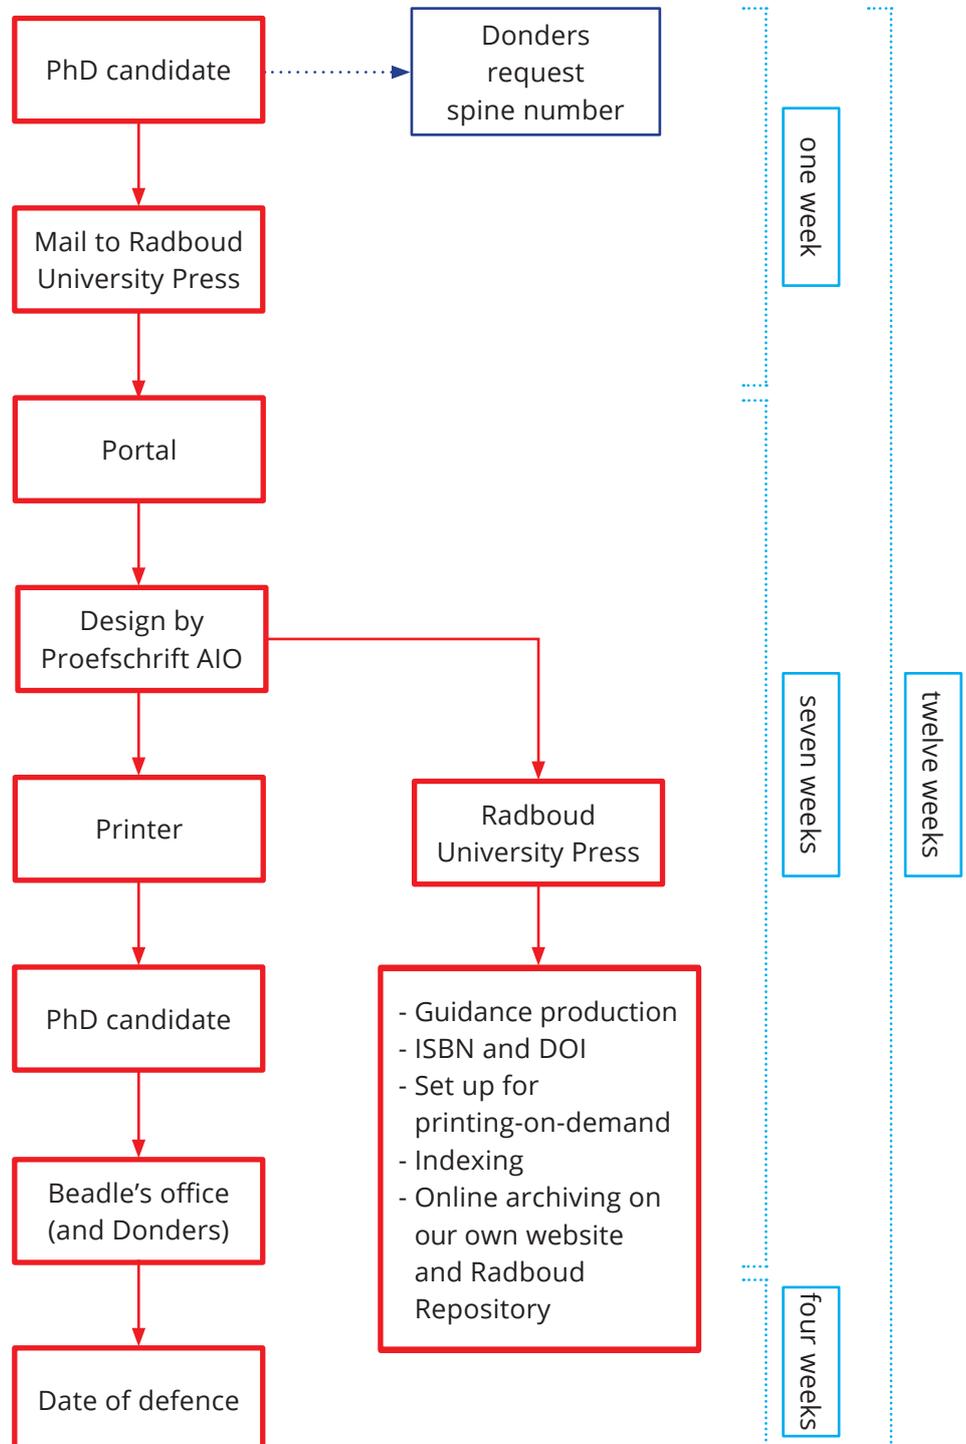

- Your first and last name
- The full title of your dissertation
- The topic of your dissertation
- The language in which your dissertation is written
- Estimated number of pages
- Illustrations included? Yes/no
- Date of defence (if already known)

We'll provide you with a DOI and an ISBN for your dissertation, as well as a link to the portal where you can initiate the production process. You'll find your unique entry code for the portal in the email as well. Once you have completed the required information in the portal, our designers will reach out to you to discuss further details of your publication.

Once you've received a DOI and an ISBN from Radboud University Press you:

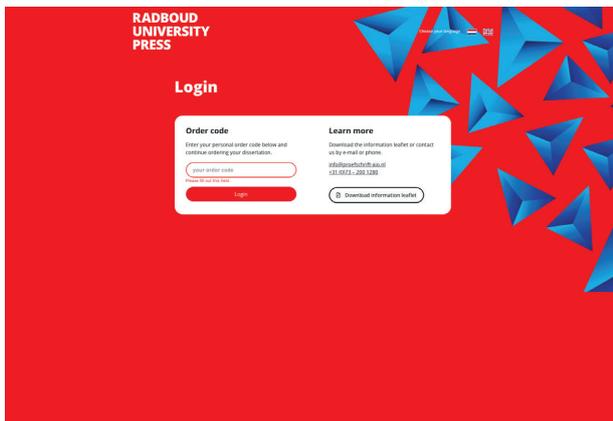

- Agree that your thesis will be published by Radboud University Press.
- Agree that your thesis will be published in Open Access under the terms of Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-NoDerivatives International license (CC BY-NC-ND4.0). This license allows reusers to copy and distribute the material in any medium or format in an unadapted form and for noncommercial purposes only, and only so long as attribution is given to the creator (see <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/4.0/>). Although an embargo period is possible, Radboud University Press is a Diamond Open Access publisher and we would like to offer the immediate open access publication of your thesis. If you have received permission for an embargo, please let us know as soon as possible.
- Declare that all images used in the book and on the cover of your book are free of copyrights or that you have obtained permission to use them.
- Agree that your name, address, telephone number and email address will be shared with the printer for the purpose of delivering your copies.
- Are responsible for providing all the necessary documents within the specified timelines. Failure to do so may result in a delay in the delivery of your book (Radboud University Press cannot guarantee on-time delivery in such cases).
- Are responsible for delivering the requested amount of copies of your book at the Beadle's office (and the Donders Institute).

The workflow

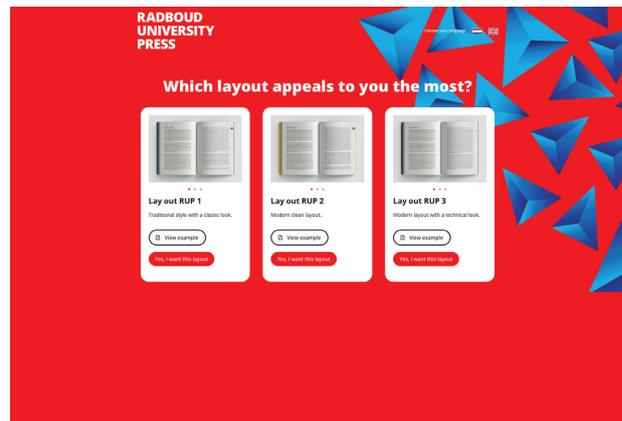

The portal

Once you have received an ISBN and a DOI you can enter the portal with a personal code. Our designer will contact you after you have submitted your layout choices.

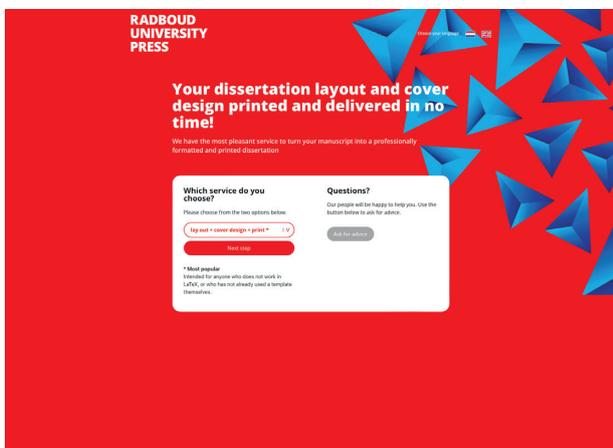

Step 1

Enter your order code to start the publication process at Radboud University Press.

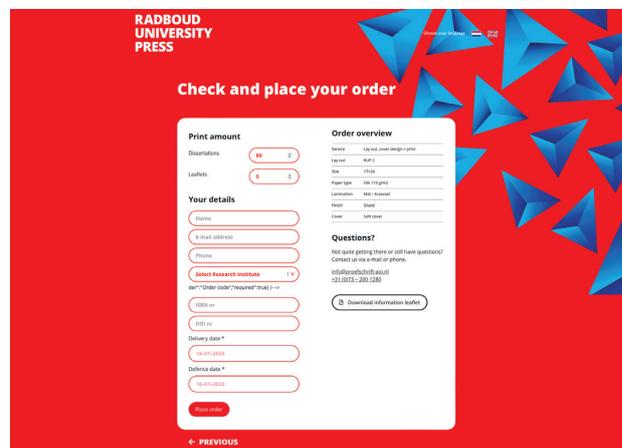

Step 3

Choose your preferred layout. You can click on one of the book previews to have a closer look, or you can click 'view the example' below the image.

Step 2

Choose your preferred service.

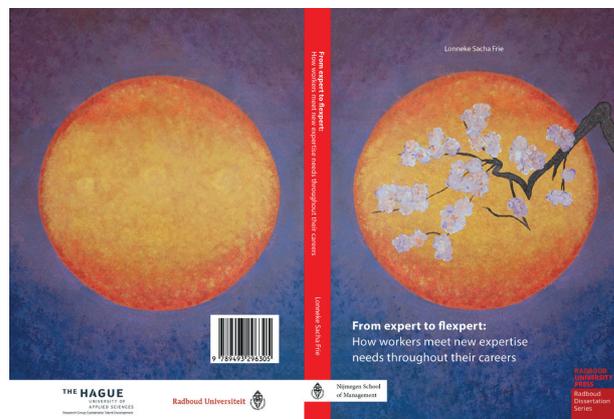

Step 4

Check the information and place your order. The specifications on the left are fixed.

The cover

If you decide to publish with the Radboud Dissertations Series, your cover design will be placed within one of the three templates beneath. The first is for all candidates with the exception of candidates from the Donders Institute and Radboudumc. Fixed elements are the placing of the Radboud University and the Radboud University Press logos, the red spine and the white bar at the bottom for the name of the research institute. The second template is meant for candidates that want to be included in the Donders dissertation series. In this template the Donders Institute logos and an individual spine number are also added, as well as the spine that consists of three red stripes. The last template is for candidates from Radboudumc with the double logo on the back and the Radboud University Press logo in blue on the front. The templates have been approved by the faculties and the Donders Institute. You can provide a background image of your choosing, and customise the design of the title, subtitle and author name.

Layout preparation

To work as efficient as possible, we would like to receive your manuscript as a Word file.

Headings

It would be nice to use the preset headings of Word, so we can easily see what kind of level the headings are.

Images

As Word compresses the images, we would advise you to also send the images as separate files. This file can be a pdf, tiff, jpeg, eps, psd, ai or png. Keep in mind: the better the quality, the nicer it will look in print. The minimum quality preferred is 250 dpi.

References

Please check your list of references for style, you might have used different reference styles due to journal preferences. Our advise would be to choose one style for your complete thesis.

Language

Before you submit it, please also check whether the manuscript should be in British or American English. This could also differ per chapter due to journal preferences.

Uploading files

You can send all files with a website like SURFfilesender, so we can receive all files as one package.

Only send the final version of your manuscript to the designers (i.e., after the dissertation has been approved by the committee and all corrections requested by the committee have been implemented). Once the dissertation has been designed, major changes are no longer possible!

Time schedule layout and cover design

Layout schedule

Please note that we need around 4 weeks to format your thesis accordingly to the preferred style. You will receive a schedule from us to make sure we can deliver on time. Please make sure to stick to the given deadlines and respond promptly to any questions during the entire process.

TIP

The ideal starting point for the entire process is when you upload your manuscript to Hora Finita for review by the Manuscript Committee. While it's possible to submit the final manuscript after the committee's acceptance, this option is less preferred.

Sustainability

As a Diamond Open Access publisher, sustainability is a significant priority throughout our publication processes. In today's ever-evolving digital world, the majority of readers prefer accessing dissertations online, ensuring widespread accessibility while reducing the ecological impact associated with traditional printing. All our publications are available as a free download in PDF format via our website.

Printing always has an environmental impact, regardless of the type of paper or ink used. Therefore, we recommend that you keep the number of printed copies of your book to an absolute minimum. There's no need to stock up on books, as we provide print-on-demand services for your dissertation. Even long after the defence, if someone wishes to purchase your dissertation, the printer will produce a single copy. We assure you that this option will remain available after your dissertation defence. In embracing sustainability, this approach eliminates any excessive stock, making it an eco-friendly and responsible choice to consider.
